

Abstract of the Disclosure

Clothes dryer lint cleaning brush with a rigid non slip handle, a semi rigid double twisted wire shaft and soft durometer bristles intertwined with the shaft. The handle is fixidly attached to one end of the shaft. The bristles are constructed of low durometer polyester and are positioned longitudinally starting near the tip of the wire shaft and traversing the shaft approximately eleven inches toward the handle. The bristles are radially disposed and taper from approximately a seven eights of an inch diameter at its tip and one and one half inches at its opposite end closest to the handle. A preferred embodiment includes a low durometer plastic cap that covers the tip of the wire shaft so that the shaft tip does not damage a standard lint screen during the cleaning process.